Successful Sale By

Veterans Auxiliary

The members and friends of the G.W.V.A. will be glad to learn that the Sale of work and home cooking which was held on Saturday the 3rd was an unqualified success looking at it from all standpoints.

The sum realized was about $60. and all thanks are due to the tireless workers, the Aux.—Any man who could resist the selling power of Granby D'Albertanson should go and see a doctor.

We raffled also a ham and a cheese. The ham was the welcome donation of Parcels and Foxwell, and the lucky number 18 and won the ham, and H. N. Freeman took the cheese with number 75.

The male section of the G.W.V.A. is indeed grateful to the Auxiliary for their timely assistance.

On Easter Munday morning a determined attempt was made to move the Club Rooms to the new home on the site so generously given by Mr. Herbert but after a day of hard work spent in jacking up the building when the horses were hitched on we found we could not move it; Better luck next time.

We are glad to welcome back Com. R. Noakes whom we believe has spent a prosperous winter in the land of money. B. C.

Mr. H. J. Suffren of Yonker, Sask was a visitor in Chauvin last Sunday.

Three Good Bulls Brought To District

Chauvin an district was well represented at the Edmonton sale of pure bred bulls. Local men purchasing three splendid animals, which have already been brought home.

'Rosadore Pride of Glendale' a fine specimen of a black Polled Angus bull, raised by C. R. Morton, of Vegreville, being purchased by Dr. Folkins. The bull is between 18 months and 2 years old, and cost $185.00

'Scotch Heather' a Shorthorn bull, was purchased by Selius Djuff, of Dina at the cost of $150.00 This animal was purchased from Thos H. Barton, of Laugheed, and raised by Hon. Duncan Marshall.

'Rudolph Fairfax', was purchased from Edwin Johnson, of Malmo, at a cost of $300 by Thos. Kitching, of Artland.

Hay Located By

Agricultural Society

The announcement that 200 tons of hay could be ordered by wire, through the agency of the Chauvin Agricultural Society, from a place named Beryl, raised no little enthusiasm. It is absolutely necessary that no time be lost in communicating with the secretary P. H. Perry.

Local Notes Of Interest

Owing to the shortage of feed, the local livery barn man has been compelled to notify his farmer patrons, that it is necessary for them to supply their own feed. It is, however hoped that the situation will be relieved at an early date.

Mr Kerr, of Edgerton, was a visitor to Chauvin, Monday.

Mr. J. King, now bank manager at Mundare, was a visitor to Chauvin, for the Easter vacation. He states we have less snow than the Mundare district

Mr M. Parcels is paying a visit to his relatives in Chauvin. We trust he will decide to take up his residence in our midst.

The famous popular Clar-Ru Ladies Jazz Orchestra have included Chauvin for return engagements in their tour of Canada and will hold a big dance at the I.O.O.F. hall on Tuesday, April 13th. Further particulars in next issue of the Chauvin Chronicle.

The Chauvin Y. P. S. held a very successful social evening last Thursday. About thirty being present. The program consisted of some games and a lunch. Everyone had a good time. The next meeting of the society will be held Wednesday, April 14th

Mr G. M. Beattie is enjoying the pleasures attendant upon being just moderately sick. Needless to say he takes his medicine regularly.

Chauvin needs no introduction to the Clar-Ru Ladies' Orchestra as those who had the fortune to hear them on their former visit will know the big NITE which will be in store for local dancers on April 15th. The Ladies' music and refinement is the keynote of their success. Supper will be served.

We miss the High School Breezes from our columns this week. The editorial staff not having recovered from their heavy meal of Hot Cross buns.

Shadowland Proved A Pleasant Place

About 150 persons attended Shadow Land, arranged by the Womens Institute on Easter Monday in the I.O.O.F. Hall.

This entertainment was new to quite a number who attended and many were the questions asked concerning it.

Shadow Land was opened by the singing of 'O Canada' and represented with the shadow of Maple leaves and the a very little young lady as Miss Canada.

Some dances were then called for the entertainment of the guests already arrived, and to give time for friends from the country to get in for the big event of the evening which was the sale by auction of all the ladies, who each took a character; cook, pugilist, speaker, typist, knitter, bathing girl, 1870, and not forgetting mother goose and the fortune teller who were amongst the characters represented.

Only the shadows of the ladies could be seen as they were put up for auction one by one behind a screen.

The bidding was good, most of the ladies bringing between $2 and $3, and some going as high as $4.50 Mr. Keatley was a capable auctioneer getting ready bidders who did not seem to mind what they bid so long as they got the shadow they wanted, but alas without some of them got disappointed.

The sum of $93 was raised by the sale of the Shadows.

When all the ladies were sold the buyers were invited to claim their partners and a circle one step dance enjoyed by all. After a few more dances the supper waltz was called after which a bountiful supper was served by members of the Womens Institute and greatly appreciated.

A few more dances brought to a close a most enjoyable entertainment.

Many volunteered their service for the music for which service the Institute wish to return thanks; also to all who assisted to make it such a successful evening.

Shadow Land was a big success both socially and financially, and the Women's Institute are to be congratulated upon their organization and management.

SOCIALISM

By JAMES COE

(Being a paper read at the Brady school to a meeting of the Mutual Improvement Society)

It appears to the speaker that he is in a very unpopular position when he attempts to advocate the cause of Socialism in Western Canada. In the whole of my excursions through this world of ours, going to and fro, therein. (that's just what the devil said to Job, say you) I have found no spot where there are fewer avowed socialists than in this Western Canada of ours. More than that socialism is looked upon with contempt, and a socialist as little less than a criminal instead of being a little less than the Angels. Now I cannot but think that this is largely due to ignorance of socialism and of course ignorance breeds prejudice. This is a big subject and I have had to prepare this paper without assistance from any books appertaining to he matter and have to rely on what little knowledge of my subject I have picked up in the course of a varied and chequered career.

In the first place then let us do away with the misconception so widely indulged in, that is that socialists want to bring all men down to their level. Socialism is not a pulling down but a lifting up. Socialists do not want to take away from any body the legitimate enjoyments of life that wealth is at present supposed to bring, but strives to put everybody into a position where they can expect and attain hose same enjoyments. The first step then towards this desirable end is to give every human being from birth, equality of opportunity. Surely a very praiseworthy object his. You know very well that the child born in poverty and squalor with its resultant neglect has not the same chance of living and becoming a normal healthy man both in body and mind as the child born to riches and in clean and comfortable surroundings.

Socialists therefore want to give us all the same chance of a healthy body and of a cultivated mind. You know as well as I do that we all have not the same chance of education to fit us for the battle of life. That while some can go to school and afterwards through college and attain a knowledge in any subject that appeals to them and that starts them out on their career with all the chance of success that a good start and the pickings of the cleverest brains can give them, there get little or no education and have to start life handicapped and even when they make a final success of life it is only after long years in that school of experience which is such a slow and bitter teacher, so that when at last they reap their reward they are past en-hard and so long to gain.

But there is an equality we cannot hope to attain, and that—equality of mind and body. Some men are naturally and with every facility given them, stronger in body than others, keener in mind than others. This, of course, the socialists realize, but contend that with equality of opportunity men will naturally fall into positions best fitted for them. Some will become teachers, others doctors and others will enter the other professions where mind is of more importance than bodily strength. The rest would engage in healthy occupations whose strength of body counts most. But, and this is a very big but, no one will have to work harder than is good for him. You know how the farmer has to work from early morn to dewy eve, day and beyond that, and has sometimes to take the lantern to the barn should be in now, or not later than the third week in April, as is having advertising matter prepared now for the purpose of submitting new listings of improved farms to prospective buyers in GREAT BRITAIN who have decided to settle in ALBERTA. Mr G. M. Beattie will leave for Scotland about the end of April; and will carry with him all listings received up to that date, and will submit them to the farmers in the Old Land personally. Mr. Beattie will place these farms before people known to him, and will be able to describe each farm first hand. If you wish to dispose of your farm, bring in your listing now.

THE NEW LISTS ARE NOW IN OF C. P. R. AND H. B. LANDS on the usual terms. Call, write or phone, and we shall be glad to give you all particulars.

SOCIALISM

to do his chores, even in the summer-time. Does that seem to you a fair distribution of labour? Of course it does not when you come to consider that there are thousands of men living idle lives on the money their fathers left them. Now we have all been trained to believe that if a man has plenty of money he can live as he likes, that is he can work or remain idle just as he thinks fit. Think now for a moment, is this just? Because a man has been keen witted and prudent, is that a reason why his offspring are to go through life in sloth? Every man born of women has certain things which he should do whilst on this earth, certain duties to perform. Do not we all know this. Has not the first great socialist, the Carpenter of Nazareth told us this in no uncertain terms. There is useful work in this world for every one and cannot you see that if one man because he has money shirks that work another man has to do his own share and the idle man's share too.

Now as to the means towards the desirable end in view. The object is very hard to win. The socialist has to meet with ignorance and prejudice. With all the reluctance that men feel to get away from the established order of things. With the opposition of clever and learned men in many cases who will not see because of their money and vested interests, that socialists are working to make this world a better and pleasanter place to live in.

Do not for a moment believe that socialism is any new creed. Men have been thinking socialism for many, many years and things that used to be considered very socialistic and only wild cat schemes have actually become law.

You know that socialists say that everything belongs to the people and should be governed by the people for the people. That sounds like Abraham Lincoln, but I do not know. I do know it sounds like Socialism and a state of things we should very much like to see exist. Socialists advocate nationalization of land and nationalization of all public utilities. I have heard Canadians say how unjust it seems that landlords in the Old Country are allowed to own so much land so that other people can get hold of it only at a very high price, either to lease or to buy; but slowly and surely the estates are being broken up. What can we say of Canada. We find we are rushing headlong into the same position England is just getting out of. Here men are building up big estates. One man may acquire half a dozen sections and another may stick at only a quarter. Does that look as if you can crow at till over England in this matter. Socialists say that the land belongs to the people and the people would let those who are the farmers cultivate the land for the production of all farm produce for the consumption and use of the people. But no farmer would have more land to cultivate or more work to do than he can easily and comfortably attend to. In return for his labor the people would give him the produce of their labor in the shape of all the needful things he requires in this life. Now it has been computed that if every man did his share of the world's work according to his ability no man than 4 hours each working day. So you see how nice and comfortable life generally would be for us all. That is just a bare bold outline of the way it would affect the farmer who would be in the enviable position of having one of the pleasantest and healthiest of occupations with ample time to enjoy his labor and the fruits of his labor. Now as to Public Utilities. This is where the people at home are ahead of America generally. All the Utilities used to belong to private individuals or companies and in America they do so belong to a great extent to this day. Now the socialists used to have wild dreams that the people should own all means of transportation and the people thought them crazy for their pains, but today all or nearly all tramways or street cars as you call them ARE owned by the people and worked by the Municipalities at a profit that in many cases goes to keep down the taxes, while the fares they charge are negligible being only about 1 cent in some cases for a two mile journey. The people do not yet own the Railways. But when the war broke out the government took them over and now the war is over are very loth to give them back and it is likely that very soon arrangements will be made where by the people will own the railways. The water supplies used to belong to companies whereas now nearly all belong to the people, the same rule applies to gas for lighting and heating, to all electricity for lighting, heating, power, telegraphs, telephones. All these belong to the people and now the miners are asking for the nationalization of all coal.

And here we may mention the co-operative movement as we understand it. Everywhere throughout the Old Country there are now Co-operative stores within the reach of all people and the business that these stores do is reaching colossal dimensions. These stores tend towards socialism as much as they are run for the people's benefit and absolutely controlled by the people.

I have said earlier that I had no literature at my disposal to help with this paper, but after I had written it, I happened to be reading a book out of this Brady school library, a book that the children are supposed to read. It is called the Book of Knowledge. Here I find an article upon famous modern such names as Adam Smith, Rossleau, Stuart Mill, Ruskin and Bentham are included. At the conclusion I find the following paragraph about John Ruskin, who is well known in the Old Country. I will read it to you (page 4106).....Ah, you say, a very beautiful and enticing picture it is that socialists draw, but it is visionary and in the light of cold reason unattainable. You have forgotten our poor human frailties, you have entirely left out of your calculations ordinary human nature.

Oh no! the socialist has not. We pray every day or ought to pray, 'Lead us not into temptation' Temptation is so hard to withstand that we seek to avoid it. What is our besetting sin? Money! What will man go through fire and water for? Money! What will man sacrifice his honor for? Money! What will man sell his very soul for? Money! So the socialists want to remove this little temptation out of man's way. So that the statesman will not be able to sell his country at the expense of his honor.

So that your M.P. will be able to vote as his conscience dictates, because no one is trying to buy him to vote otherwise. So that those who manufacture things for us will make things well and truly, because he has no inducement to make an inferior article to sell at the price of a superior article. You can picture to yourselves the manifold temptations that would be lifted from our paths with the banishment of the Almighty Dollar, and with the throwing off of the mighty incubus that destroys our finest instincts. Poor human nature, which after all is mainly good, will blossom and grow, even as the green bay tree.

But surely a man is free to spend his own money as he thinks best. Yes, he is free at present. Go to that home of vaunted freedom and see a Rockefeller worth untold millions spending in his old age and in an attempt to placate his Maker, some of those millions that were wrung from small concerns and individual traders to their ruin, in what he calls, forsooth, legitimate trade. See a Pierpont Morgan spending millions, investing his millions in works of art and rare beauty, works that the people should have access to. Works of arts and rare beauty, I say, to be stored in his palatial mansion where he and only a favoured few can behold them. While that long bread line stretches in that elf same New York where he has lived and had his being. See a wealthy Stanford White with his money debouches fresh young beauty only to meet his fate at the hands of a degenerate Harry Thaw who is entrusted with the money his father left before him. Yes, Yes, let a man make his money, as he may and spend it as he lists, it is a free country.

try. Freedom, indeed! Let us exclaim with Anthony "Oh, Judgement how hast fled to brutish beasts, and men have lost their reason."

But, you say, we must have money you know, we cannot run this world without it. Well, this world was once run without it, but of course, it was a very imperfect sort of world then, but that was because there was no system. If production and distribution of products were properly controlled by the people for their own good and welfare, what need would there be of money. Or, if you must have money, then for Heaven's sake put it its proper place and make it man's servant instead of being its master, as it is now. But. Remember that little prayer "Lead us not into temptation" so better take it away and "deliver us from allevil" Amen.

We are not yet far enough advanced to be doing without the money, but the time will come, though we see it not. It is an old and no doubt a true saying that Rome was not built in a day and those old socialists of by-gone days labored on their share of educating the people to bring their dreams a little nearer fruition, well knowing that they would never see the longed-for day, nor their children and perhaps their children's children, but content that here and there they could bring socialism a little nearer. And as they worked, men are working to-day, some quietly and consistently, others with much noise and perhaps by their methods bringing the general body of socialists into bad repute. But in spite of all opposition from foe, or detriment by injudicious friend or false socialists seeking their own ends, this old world moves slowly, but so surely, thank God, to that greet day when we shall at least see true freedom for all men and each shall be equal.

Note:— Our new serial is a brief narrative and sketch of life in a battalion of one of Lord Kitchener's first armies.

The Experiences Of An American In Kitchener's Mob

We halted to wait for our trench guides at the village of Vermelles about three miles back of our lines. The men lay down thankfully in the mud and many were soon asleep despite the terrific noise. Our batteries, concealed in the ruins of houses, were keeping up a steady fire and the German guns were replying almost as hotly. The weird flashes lit up the shattered walls with a fascinating, bizarre effect. By their light I saw men lying with their heads thrown back over their pack-sacks, their rifles leaning across their bodies; others standing in attitudes of suspended animation. The noisewas deafening. One was thrown entirely upon his own resources for comfort and companionship, for it was impossible to converse. While we were waiting for the order to move a homeless dog put his cold nose into my hand. Every muscle in his body was quivering. I wanted to console him in his own language. But I knew very little french, and I should have had to shout into his ear at the top of my voice to have made myself heard. When we marched I lost him. And I never saw him again.

There was a further march of two and a half miles over open country the scene of great battle. The ground was a maze of abandoned trenches and was pitted with shell holes. The hazardly. We machine gunners are always heavily loaded. In addition to clay was so slippery and we were so heavily loaded that we fell down at every step. Some of the boys told me afterwards that I cursed like blue blazes all the way up! I was not conscious of this, but I can readily understand that it may have been true. At any rate, as a result of that march, I lost what reputation I had for being temperate in the use of profanity.

We crossed what had been the first line of British trenches, which marked the starting point of the advance, and from there the ground was covered with the bodies of our comrades, men who had "done their bit," as Tommy says, and would never go home; some were huddled in pathetic little groups of two or three as they might have crept together for companionship before they died. Some were lying face downward just as they had fallen. Other attitudes revealed dreadful suffering. Many were hanging on the tangles of German barbed wire which the heaviest of bombardments never completely destroys. We saw them only by the light of distant trench rockets and stumbled on them and over them when the darkness returned.

It is an unpleasant experience, marching under fire, on the top of the ground while the enemy is firing hapthe usual infantry-mans burden, we had our machine guns to carry, and our ammunition, water supply tools and instruments. We were very eager to get under cover but we had to go slowly. By the time we reached the trench we were nearly exhausted.

The men who we were to relieve were packed up, ready to move out, when we arrived. We threw our rifles and equipment on the parapet and stood close to the side of the trench to allow them to pass. They were cased with mud. Their faces, which I saw by the glow of matches or of lighted cigarettes were haggard and worn. A week's growth of beard gave them a wild and barbaric appearance. They talked eagerly. They were hysterically cheerful; voluble from sheer nervous reaction. They had the prospect of getting away for a little while from the sickening horrors; the sight of maimed and shattered bodies, the deafening noise, the nauseating odor of decaying flesh. As they moved out there were the usual conversations which took place between incoming and outgoing troops. "Wot sort of a week you'ad, mate?" "It ain't been a lucky week, son; it's been a lifetime."

"Lucky fer us you blukes come in just w'en you did. We've about reached the limit."

"Ow far we got to go fer water?" "Bout two miles. Awful journey. Tyke you all night to do it. You got to stop every minute, they's so much traffic along that trench. Go down Stanley Road about five 'unnerd yards, turn off to yer left in Essex Alley, then yer first right. Brings you right out where the pump is."

"Ere's a straight tip! Send yer water fatigue down early in the mornin': three o'clock at the latest. They's thousand's usin' that well an' she goes dry arter a little wile."

"You blokes want any souvenirs, all you got to do is to pick them up: 'elmets, revolvers, rifles, and German diaries. You wite till mornin' You'll see plenty."

"Is this the last line o' Fritzies' trenches?"

"Cant tell you, mate. All we know is, we got 'ere some'ow an' we been a-'oldin' on. My Gawd! It's been awful! They calmed down a bit to-night. You blokes is lucky comin' in just w'en you did."

"I ain't got a pal left out o' my section. You'll see some of 'em. We ain't had time to bury 'em."

They were soon gone and we were left in ignorance of the situation. We knew only approximately the position of the living enemy and the dead spoke only to us in dumb show, telling us unspeakable things about the horrors of modern warfare.

Fortunately for us, the fire of the German batteries, during our first in captured trenches, was directed chiefly against positions to our right and left. The shells from our own batteries were exploding far in advance of our sector of trench, and we judged from this that we were holding what had been the enemies last line, and that the British artillery were shelling the line along which they would dig themselves in anew. We felt more certain of this later in the night when working parties were sent from the battalion to a point twelve twelve hundred yards in front of the trenches we were then holding. They were to dig a new line there, and to connect with entrenchments which had been pushed forward on either side of us.

At daybreak we learned that we were slightly to the left of Hill 70, lach, a small village still in the possession of the Germans, was to our left front. Midway between Hill 70 and Hillach and immediately to the front of our position, there was a long stretch of open country which sloped gently forward for six or eight hundred yards, and then rose gradually towards the skyline. In the first assault the British troops had pushed on past the trenches we were holding and had advanced up to the opposite slope, nearly a mile further on. There they started to dig themselves in, but an unfortunate delay in getting forward had given the enemy time to collect a strong force of local reserves behind his second line, which was several hundred yards beyond. So heavy fire had been concentrated upon them that the British troops had been forced to retire to the line we were then occupying. They had met with heavy losses both in advancing and retiring, and the ground in front of us for nearly a mile was strewn with bodies. We did not learn all of this at once. We knew nothing of our exact position during the night, but as there appeared to be no enemy within striking distance of our immediate front, we stood on the firing benches vainly trying to get our bearings. About one o'clock, we witnessed the fascinating spectacle of a counter-attack at night.

It came with dramatic suddenness, the striking spectacular display, of a motion picture battle. The pictorial effect seemed extravagantly overdrawn.

There was a sudden hurricane of rifle and machine gun fire, and in an instant all the desolate landscape was revealed under the light of innumerable trench rockets. We saw the enemy advancing in irregular lines to the attack. They were exposed to a pitiless infantry fire. I could follow the curve of our trenches on the left by almost solid sheet of flame issuing from the rifles of our comrades against whom the assault was launched. The artillery ranged upon the advancing lines at once, and the air was filled with the roar of bursting shells and the melancholy whing-g-g of flying shrapnel.

I did not believe that any one could cross that fire-swept area alive, but before many moments we heard the staccato of bursting bombs and hand grenades, which meant that some of the enemy at least, were within striking distance. There was a sharp crescendo of deafening sound, then, gradually, the firing ceased, and the word came down the line "Counter-attack against the — Guards; and jolly well beaten off too." Another was attempted before daybreak, and again the same sickening smell of lyddite, the same ghastly noon-day effect, the same gradual silence, and the same result.

Dear Sir:
In reference too the Kavanis Club Campaign for the Boys Scout funds for Alberta. I would like to ask you whether you this fund when raised will be used locally (or otherwise) as our local organization were figuring on plans of raising some funds by the same way to be used for our own local Scouts only. An early reply would be greatly appreciated.

Dear Mr Keith:

With reference to your letter of the 29th inst. I beg to inform you that it is the intention to assist any Local Association or Troop to the fullest possible extent from funds collected through the efforts of the Kavanis Club.

You will understand, that it will take some considerable time to collect these funds and to get properly organized, but you may rest assured that we will do everything that we possibly can with funds and otherwise to help the Scout Movement in your district.

Dear Sir:-
Re your letter enclosing subscription cards for Boy Scouts Association of Alberta.

Enquiries have been made of me by the local Scout Association as to whether the funds raised will be used by the Alberta Association for distribution to the various Associations would the Chauvin Scouts benefit by same. If you could enlighten me at all in the above lines so I could inform the local secretary, I should be very much obliged.

To the Manager,

Dears Sir:-
With reference to your favor of the 29th inst. I would appreciate it if you will inform the Local Secretary of the Boy Scout Association that we, as a Kiwanis Club, are making an effort to create a fund of approximately $25.00 and mean to put the Boy Scout Movement, in the Province of Alberta, on it's feet for all time to come. It is the intention to assist the local Associations throughout the Province to the fullest possible extent and establish new troops in Districts where the work has not yet been commenced.

You will understand, I trust, that it will take some little time to collect these funds and get properly organized. The Provincial Association has been in a deplorable financial condition and cannot make any move until funds are available.

You can rest assured that any help you can give us will be very much appreciated and your District will not be overlooked once we are in funds and properly organized.

Farm Accounting And Income Tax

Farmer's Account Book Published by Commission of Conservation Demonstrates Its Usefulness

A Saskatchewan farmer writes to the Commission of Conservation "Received your Farmer's Account Book and I found it very useful in keeping track of everything on the farm. I entered it up about every week and do not see how a farmer can intelligently fill out his income tax returns without a book such as this." Many other farmers have written commending the book for this and other reasons.

The Commission of Conservation issued the Farmer's Account Book primarily to support better farming through encouraging better business methods on the part of the farmer. The Tax Branch takes no account of merit in favour of its use by all farmers, except such as have already accounts.

It will not be out of place, therefore, to give a few hints regarding the manner in which the data noted in the account book should be used in filling out the income tax return.

The first, and most important, thing to notice is that the farm accounts must be kept absolutely separate from the household accounts. Farm expenses are allowed as deductions from income, but household expenses are not. For example, feed purchased for stock is a farm expense but provisions bought for the family insurance premiums paid on the barn, granary, etc., and depreciation and repairs on these buildings are charged to the farm, but similar expenses on the house are personal just as they would be in the case of a city man.

Secondly, it must be noted that, with one or two exceptions, the Income Tax Branch takes no account of either receipts or expenses other than cash. The exceptions are: Under Gross Income, the item "Value of Products Consumed on Farm"; under Expenses Claimed as Deductions from Income, the items "Board of Farm Help" and depreciation, also "Rent" if paid wholly or partly in kind. Wages for members of the farmer's family are not allowed to be claimed as a deduction unless paid in cash. Increase in live stock is not required to be declared as part of income, neither is the loss of live stock through death permitted to be deducted. Hence, even if the farmer opens and closes his books on the first of January so that his business year corresponds with the calendar year (which is not at all necessary), the total farm receipts and expenses as shown on page 25 of the Account Book will not correspond with similar to be declared in the income tax return.

The differences, however, simplify rather than complicate the task of filling out the return, as it is not necessary to make an inventory. The cash then the latter had immediately track of on pages 1-18 of the Account Book and may be readily picked out and transferred to the Income Tax Branch. The only troublesome item is likely to be "Value of Products of Farm Consumed on Farm." This can best be filled up from the household accounts, if such are kept, as it includes all the butter, eggs, meat, milk, poultry, and vegetables, etc., raised on the farm and consumed in the house. In cases where such articles are traded at the store for other articles, transactions of this nature should be entered on the books as though the storekeeper had paid the farmer in cash and then the latter had immediately spent the money in the same store. For example, if three pounds of butter is traded for a pair of gloves the value of the butter must be entered as a cash receipt and credited to the farm. The gloves, being an article of personal use cannot be charged against the farm as a business expense. They should be entered in the farmer's own personal account, if he keeps one, but so far as the farm is concerned, they are a receipt, a part of the farmer's income, and not an expense at all.

If a farmer bears these two simple rules in mind, namely: (1) Keep all business expenses separate from household and personal expenses. (2) Disregard, with exceptions above noted, all receipts or expenses other than cash, he cannot go far astray in filling out his income tax return from the data supplied by his Farmer's Account Book.

P. M. BALDWIN.

The Cause Of Failure

To be successful, farming must be made a business. Failures in farming are as often due to neglecting the business side as to any other cause. Farmers who neglect to keep exact records of their receipts and expenditures should ponder the following extract from the February "Teller", issued by the Sterling Bank.

"When asked recently by the National Association of Credit Men what in their opinion was the chief cause of business failures, 10,000 merchants replied almost to a man, 'Failure to keep books.' About the same time, 6,000 merchants taken at random from all parts of the country, showed that only 10 per cent kept records that told them: What they had in stock; what profit they were making; what their expenditure was for selling, advertising and other items of overhead; what particular part of their business was profitable or unprofitable.

Every farmer who does not keep books should make up his mind to begin. Send to the Commission of Conservation for a free copy of the 'Farmer's Account Book.'

The Demand For Land Will Be Very Keen

Those having farm lands to sell are advised to list them with T. H. Saul. We are on the eve of a period of immigration, thousands are coming over from the British Isles. To those who are coming over the first question is in which part of Canada may I be assured of fine farm lands ready for me. Many of these new comers are experienced farmers, who are looking for established farms. If your listings are ready for their inspection you are sure to find a buyer. List now with T. H. Saul, and your farm is as good as sold next fall to one of these Old Country farmers. Your farm will be placed before the attention of intending buyers by our representative, Mr Beattie, before they leave for Canada.

Economical Lye

An easy and econmmical way in which to get lye when one burns popular wood is as follows: Empty all ashes or as many as you wish into a dish that will leak a little at the bottom. This should be set over a dish that does not leak. Into the ashes pour water, and again in a day to soak them so that it will slowly drip into the lower dish. Keep the ashes damp enough to drip and you will find an excellent lye in the lower dish. When the strength seems to be extracted empty the old ashes and refill. This lye will keep nursery bottles or any bottles crystal clear by putting a cupful into the bottle and shaking it well. The lye can be used many times if wished. This lye made by this method is good for all cleaning and washing purposes.

The Hare And The Tortoise

A hare jeered at a tortoise for the slowness of his pace. But he laughed, and said that he would run against her and beat her any day she should name.

"Come on," said the hare; "you shall soon see what my feet are like."

So that it was agreed that thep should start at once. The tortoise went off, jogging along without a moment's stopping, at his usual steady pace The hare, treating the whole matter lightly, said she would first take a little nap, and that she would soon overtake the tortoise. Meanwhile, the tortoise plodded on, and the hare awoke, only to find that the tortoise had won.

"Slow and steady wins the race."

The Wolf In Lambs Clothing

A wolf once dressed himmself in a sheep's skin, and got shut up at night with some sheep.

Before any of the lambs were hurt, a shepherd came to the fold to get the fattest sheep in the flock. In touching them to see which was the best, he found an animal with hairy ears and a wooly back, it was the wolf lying down with the sheep to wait for an opportunity of carrying off his prey

"This is a strange kind of sheep," the shepherd said, and, putting a rope about its neck, he strung the animal high up on a tree.

"Are you hanging a harmless sheep?" asked a passer by.

"No," said the shepherd. "I am only killing a wolf in sheep's clothing."

"Do not pretend to be good, be really good."

Presentation At Oxville

Jim Suckling went to Oxville on the night of April 2nd to hear a speaker talk on conditions in England. He arrived there to find that this was merely camouflage and that a big happy crowd had gathered to make him a presentation and hold a social evening in his honor. After a few dances, coffee was served. Following this Mr. E. Aalborg read an address assuring Mr. Suckling of the high esteem and respect that we all felt for him. It was with deep regret that we saw him about to leave us. However we all wished him health and happiness and success in his new undertaking. Mr. Aalborg then made the presentation on behalf of the crowd of a meersham pipe and fountain pen. Mr. Suckling in reply said that he was unable to express in words the gratitude he felt for them all but he would always remember them and that he too felt the same deep regret at leaving so many old friends behind. After everyone had insisted on lighting Mr. Suckling's pipe for him a program of songs and dances was gone through, then dancing again until morning, every body went home tired, but very happy.
